

My Everyday Image
By Personal Assistant To You, LLC

www.MyEverydayImage.com

MARY KAY
Enriching Women's Lives™

www.MaryKay.com/CMcLaughlin

Click Here to See Former Issues of Fun & Fabulous Forever

Fun & Fabulous Forever

Looking good is not a matter of size or age--It's a matter of confidence that comes from self-awareness followed by the ever important self-acceptance.

Brought to you by Pat Roland, Owner, My Everyday Image and Chris McLaughlin, Director, Mary Kay Cosmetics

Holiday Styles

The holidays are a great time to add a bit more flair to your wardrobe. Remember that the purpose of clothing is to enhance your best features and express who you are. YOU should always be the focal point.

Try adding a festive piece to something already in your closet. Add a festive top to those essential black pants. The white shirt is dressed up with a festive skirt or a great pair of pants. A neutral palette can be the canvas for a great piece of jewelry.

Sparkle demands attention so be careful! On a smaller upper body it balances a larger hip. A large upper body is minimized by a diagonal line, the deep v-neck breaks up the upper body and a sheer sleeve adds coverage without bulk.

Lace adds a touch of elegance to to any event. If jeans are more your style, a lace top will elevate them suitable for most holiday gatherings. A lace skirt can be worn with a plain top--just add a statement belt for a festive look.

Statement Jewelry. Keep things simple when you want to make a statement with your jewelry. The more bold the jewelry, the more simple the outfit should be. But remember that first rule--YOU still have to be the focal point!

The most important thing about holiday style is to be yourself and be confident in what you are wearing. Clothing that is too tight, too large, too revealing or anything else that takes away from your enjoyment will decrease your holiday cheer!

No one beauty answer works for everyone. Accept yourself for who you are, flaws and assets. Learn how to project the image you want and be Fun & Fabulous Forever!